Come in costume and remember, "the goblins'll git ya if ya don't watch out!"

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I hesitated for awhile before deciding to write in response to the letter by Ms. A. Pittman in the last newsletter. However, her letter cries out for a response to address the many issues she presented.

Her letter generated a number of emotional, as well as political, responses in me. First, I support her assertion that lesbians come to SACWN "to be in an emotionally safe environment to share time and activities with other lesbians." I believe, if taken to a vote, we would find unanimity among our membership for that being the primary reason we joined.

I also felt very sad for Ms. Pittman. I, too, have been molested and hurt by men in my life. Many of us have had those unfortunate experiences and we each deal with them in our own way. But, gay men are not our enemies! They are not our molesters or our fathers. They are (or can be) our allies and friends. To choose not to have men in her life may be the best way that Ms. Pittman can deal with her experiences for now. However, to deny all of us the opportunity to share time with them occasionally limits our choices when we did not happen to have the same separatist response to our experiences.

Perhaps some lesbians do have sexual relationships with gay men, although I don't have any personal experience or knowledge in that area. I've never seen the so-called "mock-heterosexual boyfriend and girlfriend games" in our community. I don't know where Ms. Pittman's accusations come from at those of us who enjoy the company of gay men now and then. I don't consider myself insecure for valuing the experiences of sharing time with gay men. In fact, I see myself as secure and whole and not in the least threatened or uncomfortable around them. I like to hear what they have to say to learn how they perceive issues, themselves, and us. It can be very enlightening and I treasure the opportunity for growth.

As a point of information, many gay men have expressed a desire to come to SACWN programs (with or without a lesbian escort). Some of our programs, like Roberta Achtenburg and Betty Berzon, are of interest to them and they feel they are bing denied the opportunity to hear our speakers.

As far as I know, no one in SACWN has ever threatened the confidentiality policy. I have to believe this is a separate issue since I can't understand how it relates to having gay men at our events. No subscriber's identity has ever been threatened and I don't see it as an issue now or at any time in the future.

Finally, I felt the anger (read fear) in Ms. Pittman's insistence at having SACWN meet her needs exclusively, without regard to the desires or needs of others. I wouldn't say SACWN is mature yet; but, it's getting there. Dialogues such as the Town Council Vote Forum and correspondence from members in the newsletter helps us to learn and grow. Lesbians are a very diverse community — our love for and attraction to each other is the one thing we have in common. Beyond that we come in many colors, shapes, sizes, classes, political (or non-political) persuasions, religions, and professions. Some of us are mothers and some can't stand to be around children. Some are feminists and some are not. Some are separatists and others not. The challenge for SACWN is to meet the needs of all of its members — and to attract those lesbians who haven't joined yet because they feel excluded in some way. This is a mighty big challenge! However, I truly believe there is enough talent, intelligence, energy and commitment within SACWN to meet it.

We could use a forum (or two or six . . .) of interested members to begin discussing the growth and direction of SACWN. I'll be there and I hope Ms. Pittman will be, too. We have a lot to talk about.

Sincerely,
Mary Smith

Executive Committee Update

SACWN is 5 years old. As any five year old, SACWN is going through some growing pains. An organization that began as a small lunch meeting has grown into a membership of close to 600 lesbians. With this growth, SACWN has had to book larger facilities, hire a part-time administrator, attract well known speakers and provide food at our events.

Some of you have asked Steering Committee Members why the SACWN membership price has gone up. The answer lies in the previously mentioned cost increases that must be paid if SACWN is to continue. The Steering Committee is concerned that our membership and event prices remain affordable. To this end, we will again be pulling apart our budget and looking for ways to cut costs and enhance the benefits to SACWN members.

Current membership in SACWN offers several advantages. Members are given reduced ticket prices and preferred seating at events. A monthly Newsletter keeps you informed on issues and activities of importance. The HUB at our events helps you keep the pulse of the larger lesbian and gay community and gives you an opportunity to network. The expanding Special Interest Groups provide an occasion to meet other lesbians who share a common interest. And where else can you go to dance the night away with 300 lesbians other than at a SACWN dance?

In the future, we hope to serve you better. Please feel free to express your ideas and opinions to Steering Committee members whose names and phone numbers are listed in this Newsletter. We'll continue to inform you of our activities and we hope you will let us know what concerns you.

SACWN Stars

A thank-you to all participants (i.e. contestants!) in last month's DATING GAME and NEWLYWED GAME. Your enthusiasm and willingness to share yourselves and your lives made the program unique, entertaining and educational! You showed how Lesbian LOVE CONNECTIONS can really be made!

A special thank you also goes to the many volunteers who made the evening happen, particularly those on the Networking Committee: Barbara B., Pat T., Nancy R., Jan B., Dorothy S. Teamwork did it again! Many thanks for your ideas, time and work.

Thank you to all those businesses and individuals who donated prizes. Subscribers, these people support you, please support them!

And last but not least, a big thank you to the people who kept things merrily rolling along — emcees Susan Goodrich and Jeannette Hess. We're sure the networks will be calling them soon!

WHO WILL IT HURT WHEN I DIE?

A Seminar on Probate and "Living" Trusts presented by

NAN GOODART

A teacher and counselor for fifteen years, now a successful attorney in Sacramento, Nan is presenting her immensely popular estate planning seminar, at no charge, just for the lesbian and gay community.

IF:

--you've been wishing for a way to blend your lives in a tangible, legally recognized way,

--writing a Will is about all the legal work you think you need to do,

--the story of Sharon Kowolski horrified you but you've done nothing to assure it won't happen to you,

--the "stuff" you own is worth more than $60,000 before subtracting what you owe on it,

--you would like to help your parents plan so that taking care of them and their affairs will be as easy as it can be ... for them AND for you, or

--you wouldn't know a "living" trust from a dead one,

THEN DO NOT MISS THIS SEMINAR!!!

Take advantage of this event. Bring your friends. Nan and her assistant, lawyer Theresa Boschert, will tell you what you need to know--and answer all your questions--about Wills, probate and "death taxes," incompetence, powers of attorney, and "living" trusts, with just our special relationships in mind.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1990
7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

RED LION HOTEL
Business 80 at Arden Way

Seminar is Free
Space is limited; to assure a seat, or for further information, call 422-1404.

Emotions and Your Health . . . The Balancing Act

By Sandra Warne, M.A.

The announcement in last month's newsletter asking for ideas or contributions caught my eye. I'm embarking on a new career and my life has been in intense transition for five years. I suffered some great personal losses including both of my parents and a friend and companion of many years. The changes that resulted from switching careers after ten years as a Macy's executive to a full time graduate student required a real mental and physical balancing act. My partner of the last five years can attest to that! I've learned more in these recent years than the rest of my years combined.

In my new practice as a psychotherapist, I hope that I can pass on some successful coping strategies for lives in transition such as mine. My idea for this column was also born of my experiences, and I have come to learn research studies provide validation, and will be available to you upon request.

I am excited about living in the Sacramento Lesbian community and I'm thrilled to be "out" in my new career. I hope that you enjoy reading my column.

* * * * *

Thoughts and emotions are the nutrition of the mind. Just as our bodies need a balance of protein, carbohydrates, and vitamins in order to reach maximum health and energy, our minds too need nurturing for happiness, creativity and tranquility.

Most people don't appreciate the mind-body connection. These people believe happiness and good health are the result of fate, luck, genetics or circumstances. Holistic psychology maintains that how we feel is within our power to change and that it is our responsibility to create much of our own mental and physical good health.

The new mind-mentors tell us that our mental attitude is a powerful influence on our physical health. Our power to control and reshape our attitudes and emotions then serves a double purpose: happiness and health.

The purpose of this column will be to pass on to you some of the information produced from countless studies of the mind-body connection. Mental and physical health is truly a balancing act and we can do much to achieve harmony by becoming our own mind-mentors.

Upcoming columns will explore the principals of Attitudinal Healing, and the significance of love, laughter, touch, relaxation, as well as grieving and many more important processes for good mental and physical health.
